

Trip Leadership

This course is designed for students with appropriate qualifications, under the supervision of a faculty member, to assist in leading trips. Occasionally, students will work as assistant instructors for risk management purposes. This course is repeatable but only for a different topic area.

To be eligible for assisting with a trip - the student must have the permission of the instructor of the course and the Center Director.

To be eligible for assisting the instructor in the course, students must have previously taken and passed the course for which they are applying to be a Trip Leader or they must have a current industry standard certification in the content of the course.

APPROVAL CRITERIA

1. Students will be limited to one Trip Leadership position in any one semester, unless written permission is obtained from the registrar.
2. When risk management is a consideration, students may be approved for Trip Leadership based on a 6:1 ratio (6 enrolled students to 1 Instructor) (includes faculty member and Trip Leadership students) providing they can provide the appropriate documented certification in the content of the course.
3. No compensation or workload credit is available for supervising Trip Leadership students.
