

Sr. Assoc, Reforming Industrial Animal Agriculture

Washington, DC

The Pew Charitable Trusts is driven by the power of knowledge to solve today's most challenging problems. Pew applies a rigorous, analytical approach to improve public policy, inform the public and stimulate civic life.

The mission of The Pew Environment group is to promote policies and practices that protect the global environment, preserve healthy forests and marine ecosystems. For the past two decades, the Environment group has been a major force in driving conservation policy in the United States, and increasingly internationally. The group's work is focused on reducing the scope and severity of three major global environmental problems:

Transition to a clean energy economy from one based primarily on the burning of fossil fuels; The erosion of large wilderness ecosystems that contain a great part of the world's remaining biodiversity; and, The destruction of the world's marine environment, with a particular emphasis on global fisheries.

Pew's work on Reforming Industrial Animal Agriculture seeks to move a broken, unhealthy and unsustainable system of food production toward a new model that is less damaging to the environment, rural communities, human health and animal welfare. More specifically, the campaign seeks the development of more environmentally friendly waste-handling and treatment systems, and the phase out of the intensive confinement of farm animals.

The Senior Associate is an integral part of the campaign's team and will have responsibilities in all areas of campaign coordination and execution to support senior campaign staff. This position will report to the campaign director and is based in Washington, D.C.
